MESSENGER

Growing Friendships, Families & Faith.

Faith and Frustration

I get frustrated over weeds trying to take over our lawn.

I get frustrated when my body refuses to respond to my commands like it once did.

I get frustrated when I hit five red lights in a row.

I get more than frustrated when a police officer is ambushed and executed.

I get frustrated when I hear the IRS was hacked making honest tax-payers vulnerable to identity theft.

I get frustrated when I see news reports of flash mobs ransacking a store with impunity.

I get frustrated when Christians cave in to intimidation to conform to evil.

This is an abbreviated list. To be sure, Christian faith does not prevent frustration. But faith can show us a bigger picture that puts our frustrations into proper perspective. Faith transforms how we deal with life's frustrations. Faith does not call for a retreat from frustrating human concerns. Rather, it calls us to engage the good fight on behalf of decency, truth, compassion, forgiveness, patience, hope and love at all levels of our lives together. Frustration is inevitable. Don't give up. Don't let it trample down your faith. Above all, do not let life's frustrations sour the fruit of the Spirit in your daily walk.
